

HIS LIFE SAVED AS OLD MAN LAY ON BIER

Doctor Notices Flicker of Eyelash and Revives East Side Patriarch.

Instantly snatched from the grave, Boris Lunewski, a patriarch of Israel, whose years lack but three of being 90, received the congratulations of his children, his grandchildren, his great-grandchildren and his friends at his home, No. 4 West One Hundred and Eighteenth street, to-day. Less than forty-eight hours ago he was laid out as a dead man with a sheet over his withered body. The faint flicker of an eyelash revealed to Dr. Anton Bokar, of No. 41 West One Hundred and Fourteenth street, that a spark of life remained, and after two hours of hard work he brought Boris Lunewski out of the shadow of death, wherefore Boris Lunewski has the belief that he will sound out a century.

Dr. Bokar was called to attend Boris Lunewski for gasping at two weeks ago. The old man had enjoyed excellent health up to this time and had been happy in the companionship of his descendants, numbering over forty, who visited him at frequent intervals. In spite of the doctor's care, Lunewski sank, and night before last his condition was extremely critical.

His sons, Solomon and Levi, and his daughters, Mrs. Abe Katz and Mrs. Sol Cohen, were watching at his bedside. At 11 o'clock they sent for Dr. Bokar. He was out on another case and did not reach the house until an hour after midnight.

At that time Boris Lunewski was, to all appearances, dead. Dr. Bokar, at the first look, thought that his patient had passed away. Then he saw the right eyelash flicker and determined to take heroic measures to fan the spark of life.

He administered a powerful injection of strychnine and resorted to the standard methods of inducing respiration. At the end of two hours he was rewarded by unmistakable signs of vitality. By daylight Boris Lunewski was able to talk. And to-day he sat up in an easy chair.

RICHARD K. FOX SUES HIS WIFE

Sporting Man and Editor Says
Mrs. Fox Is Living Abroad
with Alfred Stein and Asks a Divorce.

The most important case on the divorce calendar to-day is that of Richard K. Fox, the well-known sporting man and editor, for an absolute divorce from his wife, Helen A. Fox.

In his complaint Mr. Fox swears that he was married in London, England, in August, 1886; that his wife was guilty of misconduct, and that on Jan. 30 last she sailed for Cherbourg, France, in company with one Alfred Stein and is now living with him somewhere in Europe.

Another affidavit of Mr. Fox states that while he and his wife were abroad last summer "she became acquainted with a gentleman who introduced himself as Alfred Stein. This gentleman accompanied us from place to place, and although he was attentive to my wife the incident made no impression on my mind, as my wife had been married to me for a period of twenty years, and she is a woman about fifty-eight years old."

The affidavit goes on to state Fox and his wife returned to New York on Oct. 28 last, that Stein arrived the day before and that Mrs. Fox was in the habit of visiting Stein daily at his room in West Thirty-sixth street, in company with one Alfred Stein and is now living with him somewhere in Europe.

Mrs. Fox is the second wife of Richard K. Fox, and they lived at No. 208 Fifth avenue, with Charles J. Fox, a son of a former wife. The son relates in an affidavit that Mrs. Fox persuaded his father and himself to go to Palm Beach on Jan. 15 and that she sailed for France two days later under another name.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, at whose house Stein roomed, identified a picture of Mrs. Fox with that of the woman who called to see Stein. She said the woman came every day, remaining from two to four hours, and that her daughter testified to having heard sounds of kissing while the visitor was in the room.

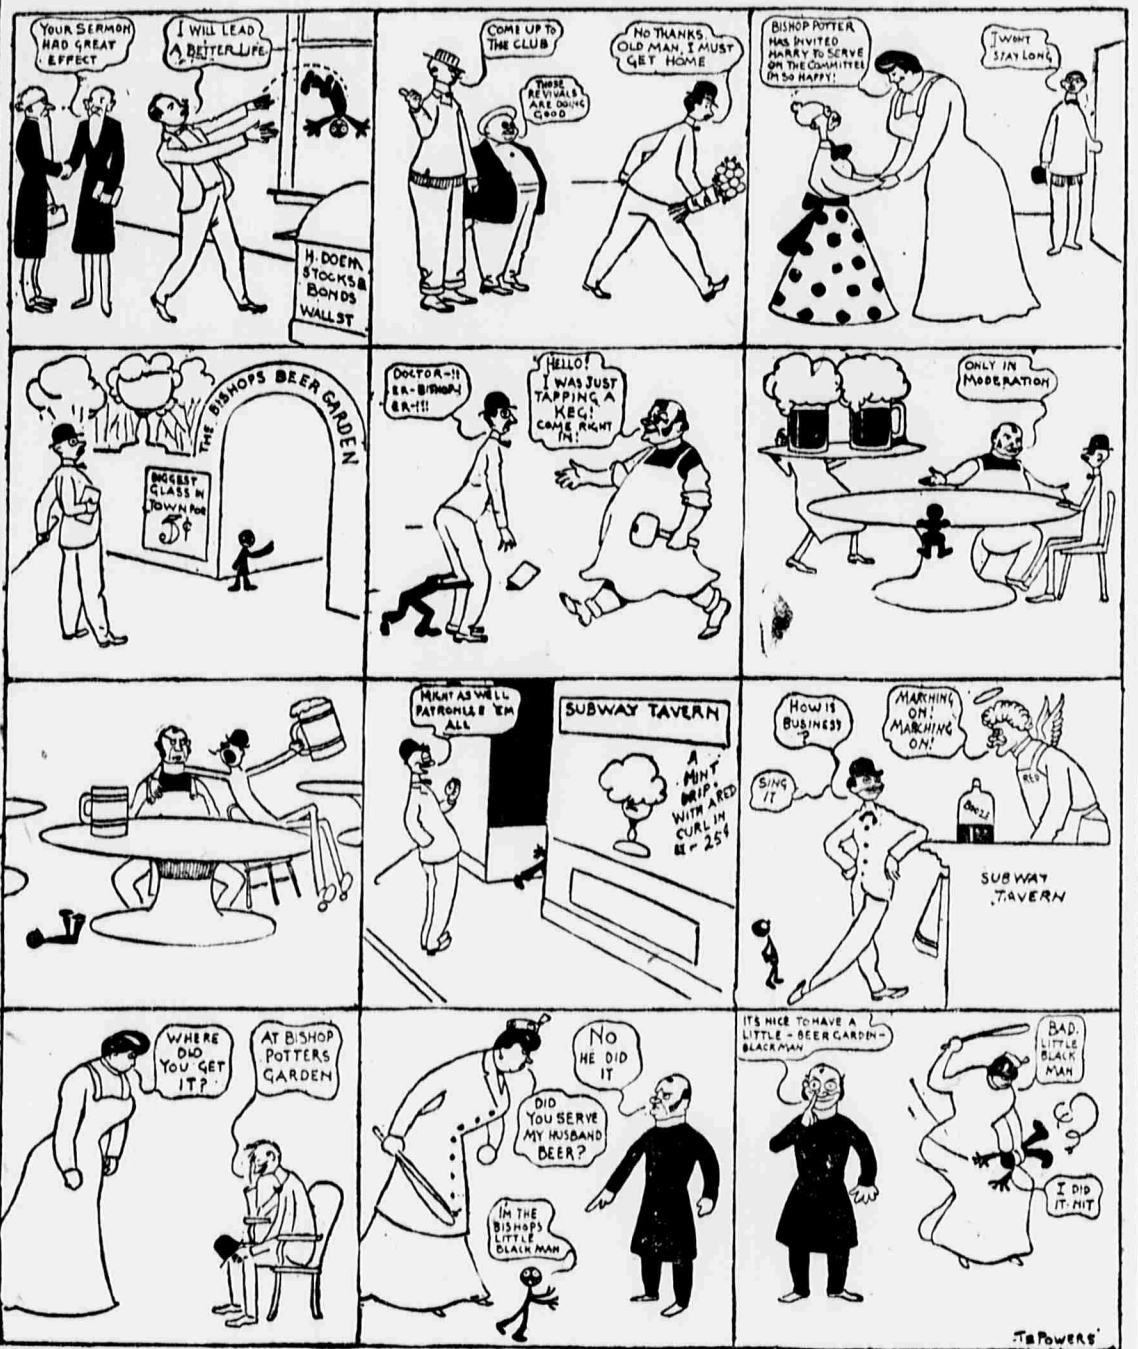

John J. Bittle, bedroom steward on the steamship New York, testified that he believed Mrs. Fox and Stein to be mother and son. He said the man was often in the woman's room until 11 o'clock at night, and she engaged and left as "Mrs. Fuchs," he as "A. Fuchs."

Important Foreign and Telegraphic News

Harper Coming to New York

CHICAGO, June 7.—Rumors of President Harper's falling health have been revived since it became known that he is going away and will not be present at the June convocation of the University of Chicago. President Harper is to be accompanied by Mrs. Harper, but their destination is kept secret. One explanation is he desires to get away from the excitement attendant on convocation week. Another is that he will go to New York to meet John D. Rockefeller relative to a convocation gift.

To Aid Negroes.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., June 7.—Booker T. Washington has been notified that $500 of the fund left in trust by the late Philo S. Bennett, of New Haven, Conn., has been set apart to aid poor and deserving negro boys in obtaining an education at Tuskegee.

Veteran Shipper Dead.

CAMDEN, N. J., June 7.—Wilson Fitzgerald, eighty-six years old, the oldest member of the Philadelphia Commercial Exchange, died this morning at his home in this city. The first sail that ever reached Camden in bulk was shipped to him. His method of shipment by direct freight forced the present plan of floating loaded cars across the river. He was prominent in municipal affairs and served six years in Council, but was never a politician.

Silent on Second Will Talk.

BOSTON, June 7.—Members of the family of the late J. Montgomery Sears, declined to-day to discuss the report that a second will had been found. Sears, who died last year, had been drawn by Mr. Sears not long previous to his death, had disappeared. It is known that a will made about twelve years ago is in the possession of the heirs. Charles S. Penhallow, representing the Sears estate, said to-day: "The Sears family has Mr. Sears' will and she will present it for probate to the court when it seems to her to be fit and proper."

Her Two Husband's Suicides

CLEVELAND, June 7.—Following a family quarrel John Brian to-day shot his wife, Lottie, and then fired a bullet into his own brain at the home of the couple, No. 133 Clark avenue. Brian died almost instantly while the woman's wound is only slight. Brian was the woman's second husband. Her first husband was Brian's brother. He killed himself five years ago. Brian's sister, who lived in Kansas, was murdered several years ago. Another brother was drowned here recently.

WOMAN CAUSES ARREST.

Followed Man After Discovering Door Casing Tipped Off.

To the constable of a woman Joseph Rodgers, nineteen, giving his address as No. 29 East One Hundred and Nineteenth street, owes his arrest on a charge of burglary and his being held under $1,000 bail by Magistrate Crane in the Harlem Court to-day. According to her story, Mrs. Emma Schneider returned to her home, at No. 292 Lenox avenue, yesterday afternoon to hear a suspicious ripping sound just as she stepped inside the street door. She started upstairs and was passing the stairway by a young man. Going on to her room, she found that the door had been opened and the door had been ripped off. "Without waiting to see if anything had been stolen she hastily descended to the street and caught sight of the young man who had passed on the stairway and caused his arrest. A shoe was found on him."

Night Attack at West Point.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 7.—Under the cover of darkness West Point was attacked to-night by an invading force in the usual commencement sham battle. This is the first time the problem has been attempted at night, and much interest is manifested in the result by the Board of Visitors and officers of the post. The Academy will present a spectacular appearance, with the hills on all sides ablaze with the fire of musketry and machine guns stationed among the hills, and above all the deep boom of the mountain howitzers throwing imaginary shells into the Academy.

Palma's Renomination.

HAVANA, June 7.—The National Convention of the Moderate party has decided to renominate President Palma by acclamation. The platform declares for the invariable interpretation of the Platt amendment in the sense most favorable to Cuba and the reform of the tariff in harmony with the Reciprocity Treaty with the United States.

Oxford Degree for Osler.

OXFORD, England, June 7.—The Convocation of the University will confer upon Dr. William Osler, formerly of Johns Hopkins University, and now regius professor of medicine at Oxford, the degree of Doctor of Medicine, and upon Basil Lanneau Gildersleeve, professor of Greek at Johns Hopkins, the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters.

Hay to Start Home.

LONDON, June 7.—Secretary Hay is keeping perfectly quiet, hardly stirring from his hotel. He keeps in close touch with the Embassy, however, and the latter is doing all possible to secure respect for his desire to be quiet. The Secretary will sail for New York to-day on the White Star line steamer Baltic, in accordance with his original plans.

Reld Sees Wales.

LONDON, June 7.—Ambassador Reld drove to Marlborough House yesterday to pay a personal visit to the Prince of Wales. Mrs. Reld this afternoon called on the wives of the Ambassadors.

Lipton's Yacht Luncheon.

LONDON, June 7.—Sir Thomas Lipton gave a luncheon at Prince's restaurant to Wilson Marshall, owner of the American schooner-yacht Atlantic, winner of the recent international yacht race.

SEAGUERS ON OCEANIC.

Among those who sailed for Europe to-day on the White Star Line steamer Oceanic were John Fox, President of the Democratic Club, who will visit Richard Croker; Allen Aynesworth, Albert Chevalier, Lieut.-Col. Robert H. Crockett, James K. Hackett and Charles Hawtreys, Colonel Hro-gawa, Sir William Mulock, Marie Tempest, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and T. Yamaoka.

WHO OWNS FANNY? SHE DOES TRICKS FOR BOTH CLAIMANTS

Judge Higgins, of Jersey City, Would Have Been a Real Solomon Had He Been Able to Decide Rightly in the Case of a Very Smart Terrier.

No matter whom she belongs to, Fanny is too smart a performer for Judge Higgins, of the First Criminal Court, of Jersey City, to even suggest division of a Solomon. And it would have taken a Solomonique stunt to determine who owned Fanny after her clever performance to-day under the direction of two trainers—count 'em—two.

Fanny is a Scotch terrier and a dog worth having. Charles Cawdsky, of No. 11 Green street, Jersey City, had George Coleman, of No. 318 Sixth street, arranged before Judge Higgins proved that she was smart enough to be considered grand larceny. If there was any dog-stealing going on.

Coleman said that he had bought Fanny six months ago, when she was owned by a puppy four weeks. Cawdsky said that he had missed his terrier four weeks ago. Like the hair man, they

Mrs. Alfred Thornton Baker

Says Her Husband Was So

Fond of His Clubs that He Was Rarely at Home.

Too frequent visits to his many clubs and the rarity of his presence at home form the groundwork for Mrs. Alfred Thornton Baker's separation suit against her husband, which will be filed to-day in the city court.

Mrs. Baker gave up her handsome home in Philadelphia because of her husband's consistent absence and came to New York to live. Their two boys, Thornton and Hobart, are now in St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H.

Besides being a member of many clubs, Mr. Baker is an enthusiastic yachtsman. He sailed aboard the yacht Hildegarde, of the Corinthian Yacht Club, when she started on the transatlantic race for the German Emperor's cup. He is now in Europe and will probably remain there until after the termination of his wife's divorce suit. It is not thought that the action will be defended by him.

Mrs. Baker is not at all reluctant to tell of her marital troubles and how the uncertainty of her husband's home-comings urged her to separate from him. She said in discussing the subject:

"My husband is not cut out for a married man. He should be a bachelor, as he is too fond of his clubs and too little inclined to remain home with his family. Clips and pieces of amusement continually draw him away from his household until at last he neglected me entirely."

"I bore up with the uncertainty of his home-comings as long as I was able. I stood it until he not only manifested an inclination to be away from home the greater part of the time, but when on his rare visits home he seemed in a great hurry to get away again. My patience finally becoming exhausted, I separated from him. I thought it would be better if we were both free."
